MADE NARROW ESCAPE
FROM FATAL ACCIDENT.

Mrs. W. T. Hester, of near Pinhook, narrowly escaped meeting with a fatal accident at her home, recently. She was on the second floor in the hall and started down the stairway with a lamp and pair of scissors in her hand, when she slipped and fell to the foot of the stairway, there being 13 steps. In the fall she dislocated her right shoulder and sustained other severe injuries, from which she has not yet fully recovered. The accident occurred about 5 o'clock in the morning, and was a miraculous escape from possible instant death. — Mt. Olivet Tribune-Democrat.

WOMAN KIDNAPPED
FROM GOLF LINKS
BY HER HUSBAND

Prominent Cincinnati Woman Is Taken From Friends on Golf Course by Her Husband and Helpers—Found in Indiana.

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 17.—Employing caveman methods in an effort to effect a reconciliation with his wife, Mrs. Clara Marshall, Albert H. Marshall, proprietor of the Toadstool Inn and the Grand Dansant, accompanied by three men, swooped down on Mrs. Marshall while she was playing golf on the course at the Maketewah Country Club yesterday and carried her away in an automobile.

Mrs. Marshall had been missing for more than ten hours when she telephoned to the home of her father, William Schawe, Treasurer of the Krippeford-Dittman Shoe Company, 995 Lenox place, at 9 o'clock last night, and told her brother, William Schawe, Jr., that she was at a farm house in Magnesia Springs, near Brooksville, Ind. She said that she had been kidnapped by her husband, whom she is suing for divorce, and that he had put her out of his automobile at Magnesia Springs.

As soon as the brother received the message he telephoned to the office of Froome Morris, attorney, where his father, Mr. Morris, and Paul Ryan and Oris Slater of the Crim & Ryan Detective Bureau were planning a country-wide search for the missing woman.

When Mr. Morris got into communication with Mrs. Marshall on the telephone she told him that she had fought her husband until she fainted. She said that her clothing was torn and that there were blood stains on a white shirtwaist which formed part of the golf habit she was wearing when her husband kidnapped her.

It was several hours after she had fainted and been revived by her husband that Marshall and the three men who accompanied her put her out of their automobile and fled. Mrs. Marshall said. She told Mr. Morris that she was too weak to remember in which direction her husband had driven his automobile after leaving her.

MR. HUBBARD TO HAVE CHARGE OF MUSIC AT PARK

Talented Musician Is Employed by the Management of Beechwood Park to Direct Musical Features.

Prof. T. Neal Hubbard, well known and talented musician, has resigned his position as musical director at the Pastime theater and has accepted a position as director of music at Beechwood Park. While Mr. Hubbard's resignation will be regretted by patrons of the Pastime, his connection with Beechwood Park will be hailed with delight by the scores who will enjoy that popular summer resort.

In connection with his direction of the musical features at Beechwood, Mr. Hubbard will continue to direct the Hubbard, Haucke, Caproni dance orchestra and will be enabled to give even more time to this project which has now developed into one of the best dance orchestras in this entire section of the state.

The management of Beechwood Park is doing everything within its power and sparing no expense to make this beautiful little park the most attractive spot within many miles.

PERFECTLY FORMED BABY
NINE INCHES IN LENGTH.

Mansfield, Ohio, June 16.—What is believed to be the smallest baby ever born in Richland county arrived yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gages, farmers, living in Springfield township. The baby weighed one pound and seven ounces at birth and was perfectly formed. A teacup slipped over the child's head without touching, and the child's body measured only a fraction over nine inches in length. The attending physician says it will live, although its cries are said to sound much like the creak of an insect.

The last child born to Mr. and Mrs. Gages weighed ten and a half pounds.

TENT REVIVAL CONTINUES TO INCREASE IN INTEREST

Revivalist Preaching Strong Sermons—Musical Program of Tent Meeting Proving Big Feature.

"That Hidden Sin," was the subject of Evangelist Howard's sermon Friday night. His text was taken from Proverbs 28:13: "He that covereth his sin shall not prosper, but whosoever shall confess his sins, shall have mercy." He divided the text thus:

(1) Sins covered; (2) Sins confessed; (3) Sins forsaken; (4) mercy obtained. He said in part: "Although you may think you have your sin hidden, God will not let it go unpunished. God says 'The wages of sin is death,' and 'Be sure your sin will find you out.' There is no prosperity in sin, and there is embarrassment in a life of sin. The reason why God can't bless folks here tonight is because there is sin in the camp. Sin will get into a nation, and down will go the nation; and if it gets in a community, down will go that community. It prevails in many churches today. We do not want to do away with the church, but we want to fight sin in the church."

"But there is mercy for any man who repents of his sin and forsakes them. If we confess our sin God is faithful and just to forgive us our sin and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

Special music, both vocal and instrumental, on Saturday and Sunday evenings. Sermon by Rev. Howard. Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock there will be a service held at the tent, which will be for the benefit of men only. All the men are invited. At the same hour there will be a special meeting for women held at the Little Brick church on East Second street. All the women are cordially invited.

SENATIONAL FIGHT IN TERRIFIC TROPICAL STORM.

Passion-crazed men fight for bride in terrific tropical storm. "The Bride" which is the special feature at the Pastime Monday is a sensational picture of passion-swept hearts in a tropic tornado, that will thrill and grip anybody who likes adventure and action. There is mystery, romance and excitement in every foot of it, with a big spectacular scene in a terrifying tropical storm to cap the climax, during which trees are uprooted and whirled to the ground, houses swept away, the lives of men and women imperiled and a schooner wrecked and broken on a South Sea island. The all-star cast includes Ruth Renick, Walt Whitman, Fred Stanton and Edward Hearn and others.

RETURNED TO CINCINNATI.

SALVATION ARMY
FUND CAMPAIGN TO OPEN ON TUESDAY

Authorized Official of Salvation Army To Handle Campaign Here—Wages War on Imposters Who Visit Here.

The Salvation Army will open a campaign here within the next few days for funds. The campaign will be in charge of Colonel Charles Mohr, for many year connected with the Cincinnati Enquirer and one who knows just what the Salvation Army has done for the unfortunate.

"I am going to start the Salvation Army Home Service Fund Appeal next Tuesday," said Charles Mohr, of Covington.

"I want the citizens to know the appeal is for the 'real Salvation Army' who make but one appeal yearly. The appeal will be from house to house. The money donated will be deposited in Maysville and will stay in Kentucky for the poor, nurseries and betrayed women, etc."

The appeal will be highly endorsed, showing beyond any doubt that it is for a worthy cause. So that the citizens will know to whom they are giving.

"I have found the Maysville people loyal," said the campaigner. "I am going to have an interview with the Mayor and Chief of Police about imposters who are taking advantage of the Salvation Army and I feel sure it will be taken up. The cause is a most worthy one and no one should turn down the Army. We may need them in Maysville as no place is immune from floods, fires, cyclones, and the Army will respond like it did during the war. So help the appeal. Give 'that you can.'"

THIRD STREET COMMISSION
HOUSE SCENE OF ACTIVITY.

Mr. R. Lee Lovel, aggressive merchant, has opened a commission house in the M. C. E. G. DOWNING IS SELECTED HEAD OF FARMERS' UNION

Mason County Farmers' Union Is Organized Saturday at meeting Held at Court House—Local Unions Organized.

The Mason County Branch of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America, better known as the Farmers' Union, was organized at a meeting held at the Council Chamber Saturday afternoon.

For the past several weeks Messrs. H. H. Grooms and George E. McKelvey, state organizers of the union, have been in Mason county organizing local unions in the various parts of the county. Locals have been organized at Mayslick, Minerva, Orangeburg, Murphysville, Lewisburg, Washington, Germantown and Sardis.

Representatives of these local unions formed the county union organized Saturday. After several ballots the following officers were chosen for the county-wide organization:

President—Elmer G. Downing.
Vice President—Frank Boyd.
Secretary-Treasurer—Ernest Zeigler.

Mr. E. L. Harrison, President of the Kentucky Division of the National organization, and Dr. H. C. Pierce, Produce director, were present and addressed the gathering.

The purpose of the organization is for co-operative selling of crops as well as co-operative buying of certain farm supplies. There seems to be much interest among the farmers of Mason county in the organization.

STEALING EXAMINATION
QUESTIONS INVESTIGATED.

Richmond, Ky., June 16.—Examinations were held today, and will be tomorrow, at the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School, but eight student-teachers arrested for the sale of questions, are barred. New questions were used today.

Confessions regarding the fraudulent possession and sale of questions which would eliminate all chance of failing to pass the examination, have been obtained, but there is much yet to be brought to light, George Colvin Superintendent of Public Instruction, declared tonight.

"An investigation will expose persons well known in the state" he declared, "as well as sensational facts. There is a ring which traffics in the sale of questions to persons who plan to take examinations."

OUR POLICY:

To support such measures as are unquestionably for the good of Mason County as an entire community, rather than such propositions as are in favor of the individual interest, or of one section as against another. And likewise to earnestly and consistently oppose all things that are not for the good of the county as a whole.

THE LAXITIES OF LAW.

In passing upon applications for clemency for condemned criminals, Governor Miller of New York makes some observations that are worthy of note. "I am convinced," he declares, "that laxity in the administration of the criminal law and uncertainty of the execution of the judgments of the courts directly tend to increase crime. Unfortunately many are deterred from committing crime only by the fear of punishment, and the executive power must be sparingly exercised to maintain that wholesome respect for the law upon which the security of society depends."

Too frequent exercise of executive clemency is not the only influence that is breaking down respect for the law. It frequently happens that society must wait years before the processes of law permit the infliction of a penalty upon a murdered caught red-handed, and of whose guilt there is not the slightest doubt. Evasions of the plain intent and wording of the law in burglaries and crimes of less degree are of almost daily occurrence. It is not necessary for a guilty individual to make a desperate break for liberty to gain his freedom. The law itself and devious court processes provide the loopholes through which he has a good chance for freedom. All he has to do is to secure the services of an unscrupulous lawyer cunning enough to detect and make full use of all the means at hand for the defeat of justice.

Penalties are provided in the criminal law not so much to punish the criminal as to prevent future violations by him and post a warning to others similarly inclined of what will happen to them if they do likewise. The penalty is primarily the protection of society from crime, rather than the revenge of society upon the criminal after his death is committed. But the moral effect of the punishment is largely dissipated unless it is inflicted while the nature of the crime is still fresh in the public mind. Whatever may be said in criticism of lynch law, it has the merit of prompt application. Everybody in the community knows that death was the penalty for the crime the wretch committed, and every evil-minded person knows what he may expect if he attempts a similar outrage against society.

Many innocent persons are undoubtedly lynched, and none of them is accorded the fair trial that the Constitution of the United States guarantees every citizen. Lynch law is an institution that ought to be suppressed, but it will always be with us unless the law and the courts cease to be less a refuge for the criminal and more the machinery for the prompt and effective dispensation of justice. In some states of the South, lynching has become a habit and mob rule is the accepted order when certain crimes are committed. In other states the people generally restrain themselves from taking the law into their own hands, but dissatisfaction with loose criminal law and procrastinating courts is with them just the same.

Public speakers and writers frequently harp upon the "crime wave" that they see sweeping over the country. Statistics apparently sustain their contention that recent years have seen an increase in deeds of violence, but the wave would quickly subside if every official to whom the public has entrusted its protection would take note of the fact emphasized by Governor Miller that crime increase is due to "laxity in the administration of the criminal law and uncertainty of the execution of the judgments of the courts."

BRIEF COMMENT

If Chicago is the sort of place the Chicago Tribune says it is, it is a place to keep away from. Perhaps the most serious of the Tribune's showings is that corrupt or mismanaged courts are continually turning criminals loose upon the city.

The good wishes of men of sporting blood in every land and clime will follow the three adventurous airmen who on May 24 started from Croydon, England, on a round-the-world flight.

It seems that the high cost of living has let no part of the planet escape. Word comes from Zululand, for example, that it now takes eight cows to get a wife, more than double the number demanded by the dusky bride's sire in pre-war times.

The Spanish proverb, a monkey is still a monkey even though dressed in silk, was invented long before Jack Dempsey began to "sport" a monocle.

The clippings from the press about Lady Astor ordered by the League of Women Voters came in such bulging boxes and bales that the file clerk who had to wrestle with them gave vent to her feelings by pulling up all the asters in her garden and planting beans instead.

The Philadelphia chamber of commerce recently gave a dinner in honor of 55 business firms a century or more old. The oldest was a malting company founded 235 years ago. The account states that this and another ancient brewery dating from 1774 were roundly heered by the diners. It would be interesting to know just how these hoary old sinners are employing themselves in these latter days of Volsteadism.

The sinking of an Italian steamer in the Black Sea by Russian shore batteries calls to mind incendiary works Trotsky is said to have addressed recently to a class of cadets, as follows: "Don't believe in the Genoa speeches; trust only your bayonets and your batteries. Conferences will not give us what we need. This can only be obtained by having the Red army cross the frontier of capitalistic states and the Red flag wave over the whole of Europe. Perhaps during the summer the Red army will be called upon to give proof of its fighting force." This is hardly a good way to induce the "capitalistic" countries to furnish the desired six hundred millions a year for three years.

TOM HAS A NEW ONE

Senator Tom Watson of Georgia has sprung a new one from his sheaf of sensations. This time Secretary Hoover is pictured as a follower of the late Russian Czar, and as working to overthrow the soviet and restore the czarist government. Senator Watson's charges are becoming so broad and diversified that a Republican official not included in them is apt to think he does not amount to much.

American capital will flow to Europe whenever the danger signals are removed.

DANGER TO HUMAN LIFE OF CATTLE TUBERCULOSIS

Prominent Educator and Student Writes Interesting Paper on the Effect of Tubercular Cattle on Those Who Use Milk.

(By Dr. Mazyck P. Ravenel, Professor of Preventive Medicine and Bacteriology, University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo.)

All authorities agree that tuberculosis of cattle is caused by a germ which is essentially the same as that causing the human disease, and that the cattle disease can be transferred to human beings by the use of cattle products containing the cattle germ. The matter has been carefully investigated by many bacteriologists and by two governments, the English and the German. The German commission found that one-fourth of the tuberculous children examined had become infected from cattle. The English commission's findings are closely in accord with these. If only tuberculosis of the digestive tract is considered, the English commission found that more than fifty per cent. of the cases showed infection with the bovine germ. The only point on which there is still some controversy is the actual frequency of the cattle type of tuberculosis in human beings.

The cattle type of tuberculosis is found almost exclusively in children. It is most frequent in children under five years of age, and is rarely found after the age of sixteen. In children it affects chiefly the digestive tract, the glands and the bones. In the abdomen it causes great enlargement of the glands related to the intestine. The glands about the neck are frequently affected, and the bones and joints throughout the body may become involved. Generalized tuberculosis occurs fairly often. The tonsils are frequently affected, even when no other evidence of the disease can be found.

The greater susceptibility of infants and children to bovine infection is well illustrated in the following figures collected in England by Griffith: "Among 930 cases of tuberculosis of all ages, there were, 196 under 5 years, of which 65 or 32.4 per cent. were bovine; 265, 5 to 10 years, of which 70 or 26.8 per cent. were bovine; 127, 10 to 16 years, of which 16 or 12.6 per cent. were bovine; 342, over 16 years, of which 18 or 5.9 per cent. were bovine."

In New York City it has been shown that with the average raw milk supply, about ten per cent. of all deaths from tuberculosis in children under five are due to the cattle germ. In England the number of children who suffer from the cattle or bovine type of tuberculosis is apparently much higher than in this country. In Edinburgh of 67 children under 12 years of age suffering from bone and joint tuberculosis, 41 showed infection from cattle.

It is evident that the only source of bovine infection possible in a young child is milk. The general location of the disease in the digestive tract or in the glands related to this tract also point to food as the source of infection. Observations of the lower animals, especially hogs and calves, have proved that the digestive tract is a favorable and easy route of infection, and is in fact the chief route in these animals under natural conditions. Of the hogs, in which tuberculosis is found at government inspected slaughter houses, approximately 95 per cent. show infection of the glands of the upper digestive tract, and this is the first inspection made by the officers. There seems to be no reason to suppose that human beings are exempt from this mode of infection.

On the contrary, we have many proofs that infection of the tonsils and glands of the neck is only too frequent. Of 192 cases of tuberculosis of the tonsils, 115 or 60 per cent. showed infection from bovine sources. In Edinburgh, Scotland, of 80 children under 12 years of age with tuberculosis of glands of the neck, 71 proved to have been infected from bovine sources.

While the evidence at hand tends to show that most cases of tuberculosis become infected through the respiratory tract, there is abundant proof that the digestive tract is frequently the route of entrance for the tuberculosis germ. In children, and especially in those under 5 years of age, it is possible to exclude the respiratory infection with the bovine germ because of lack of exposure. We are forced to the conclusion that when children show infection with the bovine germ, food must be the carrier of the germ. Of all foods, milk is the most common one for young children, and the one taken in greatest abundance.

It is well known that tuberculosis has increased greatly among the dairy herds of the United States. It has not been an infrequent experience to find herds infected to the extent of 75 per cent. and often higher than this. The most infected herds are generally high class cattle, those bred for high milk production, such herds as are found on the dairy farms supplying our large cities. It has been estimated that not less than 20 per cent. of our dairy cows in the United States are tuberculous. In Europe, where more accurate statistics are available, 40 per cent. of the dairy cows are tuberculous.

The conclusions to be drawn are obvious. Tuberculosis of cattle is a menace to children, and should be eradicated as far as possible. Cattle furnishing milk for human consumption must be free from disease of all kinds. All cows must be frequently examined by a competent veterinarian,

Americans Find Armenians Victims of Circumstances, not Beggars

The Armenian government would soon be able to work out its own salvation if it could enjoy a brief period of peace, in the opinion of an American Commission which has just returned to the United States after an exhaustive survey of the situation in the Levant.

Homeless Waifs at Erivan Railroad Station.

A Victim of Scabies, Nearly as Prevalent as Starvation.

"Time after time since the outbreak of the world war, the Armenians have made a brave attempt to cultivate their land. And time after time some new disaster has prevented them from gathering their crops or laid waste their fields before the grain has ripened and been gathered in."

"After two years of Armenian relief activity it seemed last fall as if we would be able to reduce our program in Russian Armenia to the care of the children we had gathered into our orphanages. But then came the new invasion, crops were trampled down in the fields, live stock was carried off, and the peasant population were driven from their homes."

We may not be able to save all of the helpless refugees who are now crowded in this territory, but we certainly cannot desert the hundred thousand orphan children who are now in our orphanages or under our protection in the Caucasus, Anatolia, Cilicia and other devastated areas of the Near East. Last spring, when our supplies ran low, 3,000 of these children died out of a total of 20,000 in one of our orphanages. These children are absolutely dependent upon aid from America and will perish if our aid is withheld."

Next year, if further chaos can be averted, possibly we will be able to reduce our program, but prompt action is necessary now or for thousands there will be no next year."

GUNBOAT ON WAY.

Kiu Kiang, China, June 15. — The American gunboat Isobel has left here for Nanchang to assist Methodist missionaries whose mission has been swamped with wounded survivors of the northern army cut to pieces by Canton troops of Sun Yat Sen.

The southern forces cleared the Kiangsi provinces after a series of sanguinary battles. Thousand of the northerners are reported to have died of wounds and disease while others invaded American missions seeking aid.

NEW INSTITUTE OF AGRICULTURE TO BE ESTABLISHED

First Institute of Its kind Is To Be Established Immediately at Chicago for Teaching of Marketing, Etc.

Chicago, Ill., June 17. — A new national school, known as The American Institute of Agriculture, to teach the principles and practices of the marketing of farm products, including cotton, live stock and other southern commodities has just been established

Reducing Wear and Tear—Improving Appearance

KOVERFLOR, the new liquid floor covering, contains unusual properties.

Long tests under severest conditions have proven that Koverflor makes floors of wood or cement—interior or exterior—last longer and look far better.

Resisting any traffic wear you can give it, Koverflor is a real floor investment—prolonging life of floors so efficiently that its first cost is a minimum investment indeed.

in Chicago by a large group of prominent agriculturists and marketing specialists, according to announcement here today, and the complete marketing course will be offered in the fall and winter. The director of the school is George Livingston, formerly chief of the United States Bureau of Markets; and the chairman of the advisory council, which includes many widely known men, is J. R. Howard, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

A number of farmers' national associations are co-operating with the institute, but the school will be independent in administration and policies. In the beginning, courses in the marketing of grain, livestock, fruits and vegetables, poultry and poultry products, dairy products and cotton will be offered by the extension method, but later a resident school of marketing and agriculture economics will be established in Chicago. There will also be an employment clearing house for marketing specialists.

The significance of this new movement, according to the founders of the institute, lies in the fact that it is the first attempt to organize systematic instruction in agricultural marketing, which has been a subject of rapidly increasing interest among farmers and the trades allied with agriculture, for the last six or eight years. The institute in formulating these courses has enlisted the co-operation of about seventy nationally known authorities, each of whom will write or lecture on the particular phase of marketing with which he is familiar through day-by-day contact.

Some of the men on the staff of instruction are Representative Sydney Anderson, chairman of the Congressional Joint Commission of Agricultural Inquiry; Edwin T. Meredith, formerly Secretary of Agriculture; Julius H. Barnes, grain merchant and business executive; A. F. Lever, formerly member of the Federal Farm Loan Board and author of many agricultural bills in Congress; Charles J.

Brand, Vice-president of the American Fruit Growers Inc., formerly chief of the United States Bureau of Markets; H. Parker Willis, professor of banking, Columbia University; Dean H. W. Mumford of the College of Agriculture, Illinois; H. C. Taylor, chief of the Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates; W. J. Spillman, formerly chief of the Office of Farm Management, United States Department of Agriculture; W. S. Culbertson, of the United States Tariff Commission and E. Dana Durand, of the Department of Commerce.

Member of the advisory council, in addition to Mr. Howard, are E. T. Meredith, Sydney Anderson, Julius H. Barnes, Harvey J. Sconce, and Bradford Knapp.

One of the principal courses offered by the institute relates to the marketing of cotton. This course has been organized under the immediate supervision of D. S. Murph, cotton marketing specialist of St. Matthews, South Carolina, formerly in charge of the cotton division of the United States Bureau of Markets. A number of other southern men are contributing special lines of instruction on such subjects as warehousing and storage, co-operative marketing, cotton exchange practice, grading and classification.

Several live stock authorities from Texas and the southwest are assisting in organizing courses in live stock marketing. These will cover such subjects as co-operative shipping, classing and grading, transportation and stock-yards practices.

The course of instruction offered by the institute will contain about fifty lessons, and will last for approximately one year, one lesson being sent to the student each week. Half of each course will be fundamental instruction on agricultural economics, and the other half will be along the special commodity lines chosen by the student for study.

Students will be charged enrollment fees, and the institute aims to be self-supporting. Its original capital has been supplied by about fifty agriculturists. It is not an endowed institution, for the founders assert this will make the school more responsive to actual educational demands in the farm field. During the first year the organizers expect most of the enrollment to come from such classes as county agricultural agents, progressive farmers, managers of co-operative associations, officers of farm associations, young students of agriculture, extension workers, institute speakers and business men who handle farm products.

The idea behind the organization of the school arose out of the fact that heretofore there has been no adequate means of obtaining comprehensive instruction in the field of farm marketing, as distinguished from production. Most of the colleges touch on the subject only generally. About a year ago Mr. Livingston, director of the institute, with the assistance of a group of agricultural leaders, began the organization of the special courses. He obtained the aid of the seventy or more national authorities and they have been at work for many months in the writing of parts of the courses. These parts are now being assembled and

United States Valuation Would Correct Tariff Evils

—Judge De Vries.

"America's markets being the best, its prices the highest and its money at par, this country has become the goal of all regenerating trade," Judge Marion De Vries, of the United States Court of Customs Appeals, says in a statement just issued in favor of the new Fordney Tariff Bill.

"National self preservation, in that status, primarily demands, plenary defense of our markets against being made the dumping grounds of the world's products of cheap labor and production, augmented by extreme currency depreciation.

"One needs to travel but little to be taught the distress and dire needs of our manufacturers, producers and laborers by the vacant shops, the smokeless stacks, and hopeless faces of our workmen, where before were the hum of activity and the smile of contentment.

"Why? We turn to the morning paper. Every day is printed there the reason 'why.' We read in one column, for example, that a cut of 20 per cent has been made in agricultural implements, in another that four and one-half million of our laborers are out of employment, while in another column you read an official report to the Department of Commerce that the great Krupp plants of Germany, the pre-war output of and workmen in which contributed more to the world calamity and human suffering than any like institution in history, now employs 99,000 men as against 81,000 men prior to the war; that they are contented and reasonably paid; that the daily output of agricultural and varied products of that institution is greater than in history.

"Upon every hand we find in our land that to-day our goods are being driven from our markets, our factories closed, our farms impoverished and our laborers thrown into idleness by the cheap productions of foreign countries which are hourly being dumped into this country. Three years ago the war closed. Almost every great commercial nation of the world save the United States has put up the tariff barriers against this deluge of cheap foreign goods. October 1st free trade England raised her duties 33 1/3% on six thousand articles. Previously she provided special duty against German goods of 50 per cent, and a depreciated currency provision of 75 per cent.

"The question now whether the import duties levied by the United States shall be calculated upon foreign or American valuation basis is perhaps the most important import tariff issue seriously considered by the Congress since 1833.

"The existing foreign valuation system is without doubt the weakest

Judge Marion De Vries, of the United States Court of Customs Appeals

ever enacted. Thereunder, ordinarily to introduce foreign merchandise into the commerce of the United States, in competition with American productions, no single oath by the foreigner is required as to their value, or is otherwise made necessary.

"It is absolutely impossible under the existing law to gain accurate information as to foreign home market values. Under our existing system, every appraiser throughout the United States is presumed every morning that he goes to his office to have knowledge of the market value of every imported article in every country of the United States exporting hereto.

"No appraising officer in the United States is supplied by any efficient means of acquiring or of being supplied with this information. He has before him invoices only which indicate, if anything, export value alone in the country of exportation. This throws but little if any light upon what he is required to know, to wit, home market value in the country of exportation.

ZERO STUDIOS.

In filming the big Pathe Special, "Nainook of the North," Robert J. Flaherty, the explorer-producer, did all his camera "shooting" in weather for below zero. All the scenes are exteriors, showing wide stretches of land in the Frozen North. The territory covered in the photoplay is laid in the vicinity of Cape DuRoi, N. W. Ungava and covers a large expanse of land and frozen sea about two-thirds up the east coast of Hudson Bay—inhabited except by a small tribe of Eskimos.

STOCK SALESMAN IS ACCUSED OF EMBEZZLEMENT.

Louisville — C. A. Edison, 38, was arrested and charged with embezzlement, in a warrant sworn to by V. B. Million, proprietor of a chain of drug stores, by whom Edison is employed as a stock salesman. According to Million, Edison received a note for $800 from a woman a month ago, in return for stock. When the note was not presented to the company, Mr. Million said, he questioned Edison and then swore to the warrant.
